nMotion Postponing High Capacity Corridor Community Meetings

NASHVILLE – The Nashville MTA is postponing the previously-announced public meetings on nMotion’s five High Capacity Transit Corridors, scheduled to begin on February 22nd. While we are still advancing a technical analysis of these corridors as outlined in the nMotion strategic master plan, we are committed to the most robust public-engagement process possible, hosted and coordinated in partnership with other city transportation-planning efforts.

As Nashville moves from planning to implementation of more convenient, frequent transit service, stay tuned for notice of additional opportunities to provide meaningful input as MTA and its partners engage neighborhoods, businesses, civic organizations, and other groups and individuals on potential next-steps for bringing nMotion to life.
