New fares for WeGo bus service in effect August 2 Fare changes affect fixed-route bus, Access and Access on Demand

NASHVILLE – On Friday, August 2, the costs for WeGo Public Transit’s fare and multi-day passes will increase for the first time since 2012.

In June, the agency’s Board of Directors approved recommended service and fare change proposals. Beginning August 2, each one-way trip on regular bus service will be $2.00 and prices for all multi-day passes, including discounted passes, will be adjusted accordingly as outlined below.

Changes to WeGo's paratransit service fares include an increase from $3.40 to $3.70 per trip for the agency’s traditional Access service, and an increase from $6.00 to $7.00 for the first 14 miles for WeGo’s Access-on-Demand service.

Fare Product	Current	New
1-Ride	$1.70	$2.00
All-Day Pass	$3.25	$4.00
7-Day Pass	$16.00	$20.00
20-Ride	$32.00	$40.00
31-Day Pass	$55.00	$65.00
1-Ride Access	$3.40	$3.70
1-Ride Access on Demand	$6.00	$7.00

Change cards, originally proposed to be eliminated in conjunction with the fare increase, will now continue to be issued until December 31, 2020.

Members of the public are encouraged to sign up for WeGo’s newsletter, follow them on social media, and visit WeGoTransit.com to get more information on the finalized service and fare changes. Fare changes will go into effect August 2 and service changes will go into effect September 29.
